White Or Wheat Flour What's The Difference?

White flour is downright delicious but unfortunately white flour is made up of only the endosperm portion of the wheat, eliminating many of the grain's nutrients. Additionally, white flour is often bleached with a whitening agent, often chemical, to make it look clean and pure. Whole wheat flour includes the bran, endosperm, and germ of the wheat grain which gives it a slightly darker colour and makes it more nutritious (spoonuniversity).

Flour is a price controlled good, and retails as follows:
